Writing Classes teach grammar, spelling, punctuation, organization, vocabulary, and critical thinking. Our goals are to help kids earn A's now and in the future by preparing them for honors, AP, and college writing. We cover literary response, persuasive, expository, and narrative essay writing, depending on the grade level. We start with editing homework, followed by a lesson. Students learn from the editing of their own work and everybody else's, followed by a lesson. Students then begin homework in class, receiving feedback. Homework takes 1-2 hours per week. Prompts are derived from released SAT, ACT, and AP exams as well as our own curriculum. Help with schoolwork is available in private classes.

Reading Classes use quality fiction and non-fiction books to improve fluency, comprehension, vocabulary acquisition, metacognition, and analysis. We read in a round-robin format with everybody taking turns. The teacher guides the discussion by modeling use of context, use of Greek and Latin roots, and paying attention to understanding. Homework covers reading and vocabulary.

College Counseling covers choosing extracurricular activities, scheduling testing, career planning, goal setting, private school and college selection, and assessment of weaknesses and strengths. Assistance with college applications and personal statements is available.

SAT/ACT Classes provide practice, test-taking techniques, and advice for both college entrance exams. These classes are especially useful for students who have already taken a boot camp.
